

MASK AND DAGGER PRESENTS ANDERSON'S "MARY OF SCOTLAND"

Miss Shields, Robert Nolan, Doris LeClair, and Milton Seltzer Lead Veteran Cast

Mask and Dagger presents its second play of the year with Maxwell Anderson's "Mary of Scotland", a Theatre Guild production, March 2, 3, and 4. Helen Hayes starred in the stage triumph of this play and Katharine Hepburn played in the screen version. Next month Barbara Shields takes the part of Mary Stuart, with Robert Nolan, as the Earl of Bothwell, Doris LeClair as Queen Elizabeth, and Milton Seltzer as Lord Darnley.

The life and career of Mary was a courageous one, brimming with a passionate devotion to her religion and ending in a glorious tragedy. The daughter of King James V of Scotland, she was married at an early age to the dauphin Francis. At the age of nineteen she returned to her native land from France, a Catholic widow who must rule a Protestant country. Amid the opposition of protestant John Knox, who denounced her as a Papist, and the constant threatening of outbreak and rebellion, with only the Earl of Bothwell and her secretary Rizzio for advice, she tried to be a queen in a doubting country. Her cousin Elizabeth in England, realizing that Continental Europe believed Mary the rightful heir to the English throne, became bitterly jealous of the beautiful Stuart-Queen, fearing that with the aid of Europe, Mary might succeed in seizing her throne. Elizabeth was scheming for her cousin's downfall when she planned to have her married to Darnley, an ill-reputed catholic, next in line to the English throne. After the marriage and Mary had given birth to a son (later James I of England) her husband was murdered by the Earl of Bothwell, who later married Mary and eventually became involved in a conflict to abdicate her throne to her son and was suspected of planning the destruction of Elizabeth, and finally sentenced to death by her.

The play "Mary of Scotland" gives its audience a vivid insight to six years of Mary Stuart's life from the time she returned from France until the first days of her imprisonment. Here portrayed are her struggles as a new, too-beautiful queen, her unfortunate marriage, and her tragic love for Bothwell.

RACHEL COX CHOSEN CARNIVAL BALL QUEEN

Miss Rachel Cox, of Brookline, Massachusetts, a member of the Sophomore class of the University, was chosen the 1938 UNH Carnival Queen, Friday evening at the annual Outing Club Carnival Ball. Attractively dressed in a black lace evening gown, Miss Cox made a regal figure on her throne, with the gold carnival crown on her head, and a large bouquet of roses, presented by the Outing Club, in her arms.

The judges, Coach George Sauer and Professor Kalijarvi, chose as the Queen's attendants, Miss Anna Swensen of Arlington, Massachusetts, and Miss Rachel Clift of Whitman, Massachusetts.

Johnny and Alice Hauslein, children of Professor Hauslein served as train bearers.

FRESHMAN HOOPSTERS LICK TUFTS, 36 - 26

The high-riding University of New Hampshire freshman hoop quintet added another scalp to its belt as it surged to a 36-26 win over the Tufts freshman Thursday evening, in the first event on the Winter Carnival program.

With Ray Lane back in his best form, and Mat Flaherty and Lou Cryans playing their usual brilliant games, Jack Conroy's boys had little trouble in disposing of the rather weak Jumbo five. They started off with the opening whistle and had scored 13 points before the losers were able to tally even one. Going into the second quarter, the score was 13-3. This second period was mostly a repetition of the opening one, with the Kittens increasing their lead to 21-8.

In the second half, the Tufts boys managed to do a bit better, and themselves scored a few baskets; not enough, however, to catch up with the smoothly-clicking New Hampshire frosh. Flashy Lou Cryans made four baskets all by himself in this half, much to the delight of the gymful of spectators.

The brunt of the scoring was done by the aforementioned, Cryans, Lane, and Flaherty, who scored 26 of the 36 points among themselves.

Further improvement was shown by the frosh in their defense, a modification of the five-man system, which the losers found very difficult to pierce. McLeod was especially outstanding here.

WILDCAT HOOPSTERS TAKE MEASURE OF TUFTS FIVE, 46 - 35

Hanson, DuRie, and Leocha Shine as New Hampshire Triumphs in Rough Contest

Swinging into action again Thursday evening, after a two weeks layoff during final exams, the varsity basketball team won a thrilling 46-35 victory over Tufts. The game was an unusually rough one, with fouls coming frequently; a total of 21 points was hung up by the two teams on foul shots.

After Jim Weldon, star left guard of the Jumbos, had opened the scoring, New Hampshire began a steady climb, and, with Butch Leocha and Johnny DuRie tallying the first nine points, they were soon well in the lead. This lead was rapidly increased throughout the initial half, and the gun found the Wildcats ahead, 22-9.

The Tufts team, paced by Varney, who scored five baskets and four foul shots, battled gamely to cut down the lead in the second half, but were not quite able to make the grade. At one time they managed to climb to within six points of the victor's score, but then slipped back into troubled territory again as the 'Cats regained the range of the nets. Art Hanson got really hot during this half and heaved in three baskets and four foul shots, which, added to the one point which he scored in the first period, gave him a total of 11 point for the evening. His fellow co-captain, stalwart Johnny DuRie, also had a field night at the expense of the Medfordians, and tossed in two goals and four foul shots.

For the losers, left forward Varney was the big noise. Varney was filling in for the Tufts captain, who sustained a severe ankle injury while alighting from the bus before the contest, and as it turned out, he probably earned himself a place in future starting lineups by his stellar performance against New Hampshire.

Coach Swasey's boys clearly showed the mending influence of the two weeks rest during exams. A number of the minor injuries which had been bothering them in the first half of the season were completely mended, with a corresponding increase in effective playing.

PROF. MANTON'S WORK PLAYED IN BOSTON

Two pieces for small orchestra "Deep Summer" and "The Lake at Evening", composed by Robert Manton, professor of music at the University of New Hampshire, will be played as part of the program of the State W. P. A. Symphony Orchestra at Jordan Hall, Boston, Sunday night, Feb. 6. For the remainder of the program, Alexander Thiède, will conduct the Symphony Orchestra in Beethoven's Fourth Symphony.

Professor Manton's compositions have been played in many of the larger cities of the United States, during the last few years. His New England Rhapsody being the most widely recognized of his works.

Besides being professor of music at the University, Prof. Manton directs the glee club, and the University orchestra.

ENGELHARDT TO GIVE MESSAGE AT CONVO.

President Fred Engelhardt will address the students of the University at the first convocation of the second semester Thursday afternoon with a special message of interest.

This message will be the third which the president has addressed to the whole student body since he arrived in Durham early last Spring.

George Stenzel, president of the Student Council, will preside and the university band will be present to provide music for the assembly.

PRES. FRED ENGELHARDT

President Engelhardt was formally introduced to the student body at the convocation held April 15 of last year. He spoke several times as guest speaker at various meetings held last spring. On June 3 Dr. Engelhardt spoke at the final convocation of the year and presented final awards. He last addressed the school at the first convocation of the year on October 1 when he stressed service, loyalty, and cooperation of the students.

STUDENT COUNCIL SPONSORS PETITION ADVOCATING PEACE

Veterans of Foreign Wars Circulate Papers Demanding Strong National Defense

Under the direction of the Student Council, a petition is being circulated this week by the National Headquarters of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Feeling that the only way to successfully keep America out of war is to convince Congress that the people of the country do not want it, the V. F. W. is circulating this petition throughout the country, and will present it to Congress.

The petition advocates an adequate national defense, in the belief that a well armed nation will always command the respect of a nation drunk with power, territorial gains, and world trade profits. The Petition reads as follows:

"We, the undersigned citizens of the United States of America, hereby call upon the Congress, and the President, to adopt and apply policies designed to keep America out of war and supported by a National Defense program adequate to preserve and protect our country and its people.

The committee in charge is made up of

WINTER CARNIVAL PRONOUNCED SUCCESS DESPITE WEATHER

Rae Cox Crowned Carnival Dance Queen; Sigma Beta Wins Sculpturing Contest

In the face of the strangest nationwide weather that has been known for many years, in which Pittsburg had a heavy fog that turned lights on at noon; Atlantic City had a snow storm one day, followed by weather that burst the buds on neighboring peach trees; Portland, Oregon had the thickest sea fog for years, Durham thermometers took a round trip from high to low and back, and were wet one hour and dry the next, the U. N. H. Winter Carnival proceeded from its beginning on Thursday to a finish Saturday night, with Sunday as a day of rest and soliloquy.

The basketball team set the pace on Thursday night, as what little snow had fallen earlier disappeared under a torrent of rain; but nobody cared. Fireworks scheduled for a period just prior to the midnight show were canceled, but appeared in the Franklin theatre in the form of pop-corn showers and peanuts as Durham expressed its appreciation of some fine ski pictures, and comedy skits led by Charlie McCarthy and Donald Duck at the midnight show from eleven to quarter of twelve. Rain hid in shame as the crowd poured from the theatre and reached their respective homes dry and contented. Bed was the solution to many a problem then, and classes were not thought of until they intruded early on Friday. And they were soon over. Friday was the nucleus of the Carnival; the ball was held from nine to two, beginning after the Sculpture judging. It was cold again as it progressed, but that made it all the warmer inside. The music of Art Shaw and his orchestra was danced to by over three hundred couples, in a crowd so large that it made dancing rather difficult. During the evening the Carnival Queen was chosen by three judges chosen from the faculty at random. Rae Cox was the recipient of this honor, and followed by the two Carnival princesses, Ann Swensen and Rachel Clife, Rachel Cox was escorted down the red carpet to her throne, her train carried by little Johnny Hauslein and his sister Alice.

Saturday dawned with a smile; the freshmen carried the wreath away from the encounter with Northeastern. Early in the afternoon the barn dance was held in Grange hall, with Al Dwyer playing the piano. At seven o'clock the varsity basketball team lost an unfortunate game with Northeastern.

The results of the sculpture judging was known now; Sigma Beta won over

I. R. C. TO DISCUSS CZECHOSLOVAKIA

The International Relations club will meet Wednesday evening at 7:30 in the Commons Organization room. The general topic of discussion will be Czechoslovakia. Bernard Shaw will give a brief report on "The Part Czechoslovakia Plays in World Affairs"; and as a background for the group discussion which will follow, Robert Winer will discuss "Political and Economic Conditions in Modern Czechoslovakia."

A business meeting will follow the group discussion. At this meeting, plans will be completed for the I. R. C. Vic party to be held Friday evening at the Sigma Beta house.

Campus Kissing Discussed In Several College Papers

Kissing on campuses seems pretty well discussed in recent issues from several college papers. Should you kiss a girl the first time you take her out? Of eleven men interviewed, six vote yes; four, no; and one hedges on the grounds of inexperience. In our opinion the best answer to that question is from a Soph. Lib Arter—"Take a good look at her expression. If she shows willingness and you want to—well, go ahead."

According to McGill Daily the co-eds at Syracuse university have discovered a novel way of making money for their sororities. "In the reception room is prominently displayed a pot, and in return for her goodnight kisses the gentleman in the case must contribute to the jackpot. The rate of payment is 25 cents for three minutes and ten cents for each additional minute. Reports have it that the system is working very well (for the co-eds) so well that on a Saturday night it was found necessary to empty the jackpot twice." However seeing, or perhaps doing, is believing. Anybody been to Syracuse lately?

From the Kentucky Kernel comes an article on the feminine art of avoiding the goodnight kiss. She recommends onions, licorice, and cigarette smoke, plus the less subtle haymaker and the kick from a spike heel.

She points out that a good stratigical defense is behind a screen door. Wires, she says, will stop even the most ardent boy. However she winds up with the typical coy female remark, "But why go to all that trouble? All women agree it's fun to be kissed goodnight."

A UNIFORM CUT SYSTEM

Contrary to the general belief of the student body, there is no universal cut system in force at the University. Each professor is permitted to use his own discretion with the result that we have almost as many different systems as we have faculty members. These range in scope from a prohibition of any but excused cuts to an apparently unlimited number. Some faculty members explain the system they intend to employ while others do not specify one way or another. It would seem that a uniform method would be better than the chaotic condition which now exists.

We believe that some system should be developed upon the basis of the student's scholastic standing. Many oppose this plan, but we feel that a student who has proven his ability has shown sufficient development to be permitted to determine that which will benefit him most. Frequently the equivalent amount of time spent in research would be far more beneficial to the superior student than a review of facts which he has already mastered from his text.

We propose a possible system, not in an arbitrary manner, but rather to offer a place at which a faculty committee might start in determining the most effective method for this University to follow.

1. Those students who make the Dean's List would have the privilege of unlimited cuts in all courses.
2. Students with an average of 80-85 would be privileged to take six cuts in all courses.
3. Those with an average of 75-80 would be given three cuts in all courses.
4. Any professor would have the right to revoke these privileges if any person's average in a course dropped below a 75.
5. At mid-semester the professor would publish a list of students in the three divisions for his course. Until the end of the semester the cuts for that course would be based on the mid-semester average.
6. Any person having below a 75 average would be required to attend all classes unless excused by the professor.
7. Freshmen would be required to attend all classes during their first semester at the University.

There is always the argument against such a system that the student will abuse it. Perhaps he will, but is he not capable of deciding what is best for himself? A large part of the student body is earning at least part of its expenses. If the student is willing to throw away this money, is it not his business? A university cannot cram knowledge down a student's throat. It can show him the sources of knowledge, but he must decide whether or not he will make it a part of himself. Furthermore, a rigidly enforced "no-cut" system removes responsibility from the student, and makes the University even more unlike the world for which it is supposed to fit him.

In adopting such a system we would be conforming with a very definite trend, namely, that of placing more and more of the responsibility for gaining an education upon the student, which is found in the more progressive American institutions of higher learning.

GRIDMEN TO MEET THURSDAY EVENING

Coach George Sauer announces that Thursday evening in the Commons Trophy room there will be a meeting of all football men and all others interested in attending the football clinic. If the varsity hockey game with Bowdoin is played in the evening, the meeting will be held directly after the contest; otherwise, it will take place at 7:30 P. M. The purpose of the meeting is to find out what will be the most convenient times for the sessions of the football clinic to be held. It is imperative that all who are interested should be present.

The football clinic, which is to be directed by Coaches Sauer and Justice, is a new institution at the University of New Hampshire. It has been introduced for the purpose of instructing the players and enthusiasts in the fundamental principles of the game, so as to make it easier for them when actual practice and training commences. Basic and individual aspects of grid technique will be stressed in both lectures and workouts.

For the first session, the coaches plan to take up the subject of rules, and demonstrate to the players how much there is to it and how much they have yet to learn. Succeeding classes will be concerned with the other points of the game, and either directly before or immediately after spring holidays, the four week spring training program will begin. Because of the nature and importance of this work, it is evident that anybody who misses either the clinic or spring training will have a tremendous amount to catch up on in the fall; therefore, it is hoped that all potential candidates will attend both.

LAUGHS AND CHUCKLES

"WHAT HAPPENED"

It was midnight. He had been at a very jolly birthday party and had wine not too wisely but well. He found his own front door with wonderful accuracy, navigated the steps with precision and discovered the keyhole by instinct.

Once in the dimly lighted hall there was an ominous silence followed by a tremendous crash of breaking glass.

"Why, what has happened, George?" came a voice from above.

"It's all right, Nell; I'll teach those goldfish not to snap at me."

NOT EVEN SICK

Strolling through a field with his sweetheart he spied a bull rushing toward them. Quick as a flash he beat a hasty retreat.

"Why, Paddy, you were afraid," she said when they reached safety, "and you said you would face death for me."

"I know I said that," Paddy replied, "but that bull wasn't dead."

NOT HIS BUSINESS

The other evening a couple hailed a taxicab. The cab went jerking along for a while and presently the driver exclaimed:

"My, what a clutch."

"Say," came an indignant feminine voice from the rear, "You keep your eyes to the front. This is none of your business."

ABSENT MINDED

The absent-minded professor called his biology class to order shortly after the lunch hour.

"Our special work this afternoon," he said, "will be cutting up and inspecting the inward workings of a frog. I have a frog here in my pocket to be used as a specimen."

He reached into his pocket and pulled out a paper sack, shook the contents on the table, and out rolled a nice looking ham sandwich. The professor looked at it, perplexed, scratched his head and muttered:

"That's funny; I distinctly remember eating my lunch."

MORE INFORMATION WANTED

The teacher was talking about the dolphin and its habits. "And, children," she said impressively, "just think! A single dolphin will have two thousand baby dolphins!"

RECENT EVENTS

by George Edson

An extraordinary trial was held in Omaha, Nebraska, the other day.

The Nebraska Christian Youth Council brought charges against adult society on the grounds of "ignorance, selfishness, and indifference to the needs of youth."

The trial was held before the chief justice and two associate justices of the State Supreme Court. A jury of six prominent Nebraskans, with Governor R. L. Cockran as foreman, handed down a verdict of guilty on three of five counts. An Associated Press dispatch states:

"The jury found society guilty of failure to provide opportunity for employment, failure to provide instructive use of leisure time and failure to provide preparation for marriage and home life."

This trial, coming as it does when juvenile delinquency and crime is on the upgrade, when unemployment is increasing rapidly, should serve to focus the attention of the youth of the United States on its future.

Higher wages, increased relief, decent housing, adequate schools, proper recreation and health facilities, more funds for the National Youth Administration—all these can do a great deal to prevent American Youth from being dragged into a life of crime, or thrown into a future with no hope of becoming useful citizens.

The guilty verdict of the Nebraska jury is the best kind of argument for the passage of the American Youth Act, which has been introduced into Congress by Senator Lundeen of Minnesota and Representative Coffe of Washington, the Act providing just the answer for the problems which are confronting American Youth.

"Goodness!" exclaimed the little girl at the foot of the class; "and how many do the married ones have?"

"Good heavens! Who gave you the black eye?"

"A bridegroom—for kissing the bride after the ceremony."

"But surely he didn't object to that ancient custom?"

"No—but it was two years after the ceremony."

SCANDAL STREET

The basketball team has yet to crawl into the win column of the New England Intercollegiate Basketball League. It was almost conceded that they would do so at the expense of the heretofore hapless Northeastern outfit, but those hopes were dashed the other night when the boys looked like the victims of the Massacre at Piedmont. Whether it was too much carnival or not we won't try to say. Let it go that the boys were definitely not up to par. In fact the boys who wound up the game, after the varsity had gone to put their tuxes on for the house parties, made Northeastern the sick looking outfit they were supposed to be. After the job they did on Tufts, and showed us what they are really capable of doing, it seems that a victory over Connecticut State tomorrow would rectify the mess that occurred Saturday night.

The Student Council, together with the Women's Student Government inaugurated something during finals week that ought to be mentioned. We are referring to the mock basketball game which was pulled off at the gym in conjunction with the Vic party. Congratulations to Charlie Betz, Stan Benner, Baseball Ferris, Ken Noseck, Jack Hanlon, Dick Nellson, Smoky Joe Sculos, Lloyd Coutts, and Barrel Pioli for putting on a show that gave our worried sides a chuckle. It was a great idea and we look forward to seeing something of the sort during the final week in June.

This boy Adams is sure setting a pace for his freshman team. He wasn't on the first five when the season started, but by constant plugging he worked himself up until he had earned a starting berth. His work was so much appreciated by the fellows that he was rewarded with the election to the captaincy. That is what makes good men and Coach Swasey should keep his eye on him for next year.

The hockey team is still somewhere near the top of the New England College Hockey League. They were tied with B. U. till the other day, and since B. U. earned a tie with Colby, the top places must be in somewhat the same order. Colby plays the varsity here today and should offer a good game. Who will play in the nets in place of Thayer is still a mystery. However, it will probably be Cary Haseltine or Bob Cullis.

To get back to the basketball games. The varsity can't be as bad as they looked the other night. Three weeks ago we saw them go down before B. U. by a

STAR KITTEN FIVE CRUSHES HUSKY PUPS

Once again, the New Hampshire freshman hoopsters showed their talent, by crushing the Husky Pups from Northeastern under a topheavy 64-29 score, in a game played in the gymnasium Saturday afternoon. This was the sixth straight victory for the yearlings, and their eighth win of the season to date.

The largest booms in the thundering Blue and White attack were Cryans, Adams, Flaherty, and Lane, each of whom scored at least eight points, continuing his steady return to form, Ray Lane tossed seven baskets and a foul shot, for a total of 15 large points. Bordwell, right forward of the invaders, was tops for his team with four goals and a successful foul throw.

The sensational victory of the freshmen, which was the largest margin since the opening game with New Hampton Academy, helped to counteract the disappointing showing of the varsity against the Huskies.

close score. Shortly afterward Tufts took B. U. over the bumps handily. Then a week or so after that Tufts got whaled by the Wildcats. It doesn't make any more sense than the time, a couple of years ago, that some one figured out that New Hampshire could have beaten Minnesota on the gridiron by comparative scores. The quintet looked O. K. in practice Monday night and maybe they'll go right to town now that they have that game out of their system.

The relay team didn't do as well at New York as was hoped. The story is that Skid Abbott did just that. In other words, as Abbott was about to go into second place he tripped and fell and dropped the baton which rolled all over the Garden. The result was that they were shut out by the proverbial city block. However, and get this, Huck Quinn ran his leg of the mile in 49 seconds. Not too bad is it?

The ski team went up to Rumford, Maine over the weekend. From the reports of the trip, they all had a great time especially one worthy individual who is said to have been so smitten by the charms of some fair dove that his skiing looked like last year's Christmas tree. According to the boys, it was hard enough to ski under the weather conditions that existed but this particular athlete made the weather seem insignificant. We're not trying to turn this pillar into an athletic dirt-dishing harangue but it was quite interesting to hear his teammates discuss it and to watch the moonstruck look in his eyes when she was mentioned. Maybe it does come under sports, at that.

Speaking of the ski team, they are scheduled to go up to Dartmouth this weekend and compete in the annual Dartmouth Winter Carnival. At last reports there was no snow in Hanover to speak of, but Dartmouth is noted for her luck in having snow for that occasion. Last year New Hampshire's team finished 4th to Dartmouth, McGill and a group of Swiss skiers. If the meet is held let's keep our fingers crossed and hope that they can do at least as well as last year. Anyway, good luck, Dartmouth, we hope you have more snow than we did.

FROSH TRACKMEN BOW TO ANDOVER ACADEMY

Travelling to Andover for their first dual meet of the season, the freshman winter track team was bested by Andover Academy, by a 43-20 score. Wally Mather shone for the Kittens, taking a first and two seconds to tie with Pirnie of Andover for meet high scorer.

In the 100 yard run, Jones, diminutive cross-country star, ran a beautifully timed race and ended up in first place in the time of 2:29.6. Mather won the 300 yard dash, which was run against time, in 35.8. Elliot of New Hampshire, after a fine race against Coles of Andover in the second heat of this event, was just passing his rival five yards from the tape, when he stumbled and fell, erasing what would have been a certain third place in the event, and a first place in his heat. Styryna took second in the 600 yard dash, which was won by Keller of Andover in 1:21.4. Styryna's time was 1:23.

HUSKY QUINTET WINS IN SLOPPY CONTEST

In the most ragged game seen on the local court this season, the varsity basketball team went down to an inglorious 47-31 defeat before Northeastern, Saturday evening.

Neither team seemed able to function smoothly and the contest degenerated into more or less of a rough brawl.

Ray Dunn opened the scoring with a foul toss, and was soon followed by Walt Webb who did the same thing. Then Northeastern began to score and was soon leading by seven points. They increased this margin steadily, and at the half, led 23-12.

In the second period, the Wildcats gamely tried to cut down the lead, but, except for a last minute spurt by the fresh substitutes, they were unable to do much along this line.

HE SELLS TOBACCO TO THEM ALL

But Branch Bobbitt, like so many other independent experts, prefers Luckies...

"AT AUCTIONS in my warehouse in Farmville, North Carolina," says Mr. Branch Bobbitt, "Lucky Strike buyers know what tobacco they want and they'll keep bidding right up until they get it.

"Well—in a cigarette—it's the tobacco that counts. I know tobacco and I know what tobacco is in what cigarettes. So that's one reason I've smoked Luckies for over five years now."

Many other experts agree with Mr. Bobbitt. Sworn records show that, among independent tobacco experts, Luckies have twice as many exclusive smokers as have all the other cigarettes combined.

RELAY TEAM PLACES FOURTH AT MILLROSE

The varsity mile relay team, running in the classic Millrose Games, in Madison Square Garden, New York City, Saturday evening, came in fourth in their four-cornered heat against Northeastern, Connecticut State and St. Johns, who finished in that order. The time of Northeastern, the winning team, was 3:27.6.

New Hampshire's team was composed of Percy Whitcomb, Skid Abbott, Frank Wright, and Huck Quinn, running in that order. Poor breaks are reputed to have accounted for the poor showing of the Wildcats in this event, which they won last year.

Coach Charles Justice, substituting for Paul Sweet, who is on a half year's leave of absence, accompanied the quartet to New York.

As Huck Quinn did not enter in the 600 yard run, the mile relay team members were the only entries.

A feature of the meet was the breaking of the world's record in the sixty yard dash twice by Ben Johnson, sensational colored sprinter from Columbia, who lowered the time for the distance to six seconds. Another record was shattered as Spec Towns of Georgia, and Allan Tolmich of Wayne completed the 60 yard high hurdles in 7:4. Tolmich in one of the trial heats, and Towns in the final. The Wanamaker Mile was won by Glenn Cunningham, who tied the meet

At 9:00 the fraternity dances began. The fraternities were lighted up, some with flood lights, and others with signs. After nine, music could be heard from all the houses, as the carnivaleers spent their last Carnival night in dancing.

With the Saturday dances, lasting until twelve, the Carnival ended. It was a most successful affair despite inclement weather, and Carnival guests went home feeling that Durham had offered them ample hospitality.
